not surpassed.
It is endorsed by the best chemists as the most efficacious strengthening Tonic this country has ever produced, the value of which will be recognized by all who may use them.
Private citizens of Arizona visiting St. Louis have expressed their convictions that it is particularly adapted to the wants of that Territory, and have only a trial to convince themselves of its value.

Orders addressed to THE WEST INDIA MANUFACTURING COMPANY will be promptly executed.

Every County Should take Advantage of It.

The Bulletin believes that the Arizona funding law is one that will result in a benefit to every county in the Territory that takes advantage of it. It provides for the funding of all floating indebtedness in 20-50 year bonds, which shall bear interest at not more than 5 per cent. per annum. This will be a great saving in interest and will defer the payment of principal to a time when the wealth of every county in Arizona will be three or four times what it is now. Under the new law, counties are prohibited from going in debt beyond the limit of 4 per cent. of their assessed wealth. Like all other laws, this funding law may be abused, and carried on in such an extravagant manner as to allow the expenses incident to putting it in successful operation to consume a large part of the savings. The Board of Supervisors of Graham county, we hope, will lose no time in having our floating warrants taken up under this law. It will put our county government on a cash basis after January 1st, and leave our obligations to be paid, in part, by those who come to our county in the future, to receive the benefits of the hardships borne by our hardy pioneers.—Graham County Bulletin.

Signaler, to Say the Least.

Over at the Territorial penitentiary at Yuma, the other day, the officials made a tour of the prison and found that the convicts were quite well prepared for making a break for liberty. Saws made of material used in the shoes were found that were so thoroughly tempered that no bar about the prison would have been an obstacle to the escape of those who had them.

Among other things found were perfect-fitting keys to the cell doors, as well as the main outside gate. These keys were so perfect that the Assistant Superintendent is now using them regularly.

The prisoners have scarcely had time to make these articles since the new management has been in power.

When were they made? Were any persons in authority privy to them?

Were they left with the prisoners to enable them to give Capt. Ingalls and his assistants trouble or to bring discredit on them?

No one can tell. Stranger things than that have happened. Whatever the object, it has miscarried. The saws and the keys are in the hands of the officers and there will be no more saw or key making at the Yuma penitentiary under the present administration.—Phoenix Republican.

The frowns of nature upon Arizona as indicated in early summer, have given way to smiles of hope, and joy is manifested throughout the length and breadth of our beautiful land that the promises of the future are so bright. All through the mountains and valleys the rain has fallen copiously, and the farmer and stockman feel that they are indeed favored. The mines are also developing into new life by the appreciation in the price of silver, and upon these three great industries the whole prosperity of our people rests. The one black cloud of evil—the Indian troubles—has been dissipated, and in its place there appears a rainbow of hope that in this direction the end of our apprehension is nearly reached. Arizona stands to-day upon a better plane of progress than at any previous period, and the expectation is not over sanguine that looks to the next semi-decade to advance the material growth of the Territory to happy condition of prosperity that is unquenchable upon the Pacific coast.—Florence Enterprise.

The withdrawal of the aid lands from entry was a ridiculous performance, and the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico are especially suffering from it. Congress ought not to adjourn until it undoes its former blind work, and restores the rule that prevailed before the aid lands were withdrawn from entry. The excuse doubtless was made that frauds were being committed by which some men were securing more land than they were entitled to. This should have been corrected by having the laws more rigidly enforced, and not by action that would retard the settlement of a country that, with water and energy, can be made to blossom like the rose and produce in great abundance.—Phoenix Republican.

An Italian physician sees Dr. Brown-Segard's elixir of life and goes him one better. He claims to have discovered the microbe of old age. The scientists of that country contend that such a microbe exists and that it is transmitted by heredity and that it spreads through and demoralizes the race.

Mineral Lands on Railroad Grants.

(S. F. Chronicle.)

In July, 1862, the United States granted to the Central Pacific Railroad Company all the odd sections of public land within ten miles of the line of its road on each side, saving and excepting mineral lands. In February, 1890, the company sold to one Francœur a tract of land in Nevada county, on which is situated the Eagle Bird mine. This mine was and is held by one Newhouse under a mining patent issued in 1887. Francœur brought an action of ejectment, relying on his railroad deed, and on Wednesday the Judge of the Circuit Court in which the action had been tried charged the jury that all such land as was readily ascertainable as mineral land in 1862, or at the date of the definite location of the railroad, must be considered as excepted from the grant. Under this instruction a verdict was rendered for the defendant—that is, the mineral claim prevailed over the railroad claim.

It is said that in the Sacramento Land district alone there are 750 patented mineral claims located on odd sections, and that the verdict in the Francœur-Newhouse case will be decisive of the merits of all these patents and will insure the patentees in their holdings.

Although it did not so appear on the record, it is asserted that the Central Pacific was the real plaintiff in the case just decided, its claim being based upon the proposition that the railroad company is entitled to all lands which were not known in July, 1862, to contain minerals. Should such a construction prevail it would make the Central Pacific one of the most extensive mine owners in the world, and would defeat, to a very great extent, the general mining statutes of the United States.

In view of the terms of the original grant to the railroad, it is not easy to see how it could have contended for a construction other than that given to the act by the Circuit Court. The act of Congress reads, "Provided, That all mineral lands shall be excepted from the operation of this act." This clearly means just what it says, and does not mean just what lands as were known to be mineral lands at the date of the passage of the act.

The fact is that the Central Pacific thought it saw a chance to deprive the people of the right to take up mineral lands under the general laws, and to compel those who had already located mining claims to purchase their mining ground from the company. When it is called to mind that the single mine referred to, the Eagle Bird, is valued at $1,000,000, it is easy to see to what extent the finances of the corporation might have been assisted even by compromises, and the impudent claim being carried to a successful issue.

There are hundreds of people, possibly thousands, to whom this decision is all important. They will not be deceived as to who the real plaintiff in the Francœur suit was, and the knowledge of this covert attempt of the Central Pacific to rob them of their property will not tend to increase their admiration or love for that corporation.

The Next Electoral Vote.

At the next Presidential election six new States will be represented in the Electoral College, casting a total vote of 19. The situation is figured out here to be like this: At the last election the Electoral vote was 401, of which 233 were cast for Harrison and 168 for Cleveland. The sure Republican vote was 182, and Harrison carried the two doubtful States of New York and Indiana, with a combined vote of 51. At the next election it is safe to say that five of the six new States will be Republican and one, Montana, may be classed as doubtful. The "sure Republican vote" will thus be increased to 198. But the total Electoral vote will probably be 420, making 211 necessary to a choice, so that the Republicans will be 13 short of victory. If they can carry Indiana, they will have a majority in the Electoral College.—Herald.

It seems that the suggestion to exclude Tolstoi's "Kreutzer Sonata" from the mails came from the moral Deputy Postmaster of Chicago. The Chicago publisher of a translation of the story brought the book to deputy and submitted it to him for passage through the mails at regular book postage. When the deputy began to read his hair rose on end, and the result was an appeal to Wamamaker, which ended in the ridiculous order for the exclusion of the book from the mails. The publishers claim to be indignant, but it is a grand advertisement for them, and they are sure to win on appeal. The singular feature of the affair is that the sale of the book was not large until attention was called to it by this official

TERRESTRIAL BRIEVITIES.

Barley is selling at 75 cts. in Phoenix. The estimated value of cattle sold in Arizona this season is $2,500,000.

Judge J. H. Kibbey is enjoying a well earned vacation, at his home in Florence.

The washout on the S. P. railroad near Pantano was 300 feet in extent, and that west of Dragon summit, 200 feet.

Tucson is engaged in its favorite pastime—building railroads on paper. This time it is an air (wind) line to Nogales.

Fifty-three cars of perishable fruit were caught at Tucson by the washouts, and sold to pay freight and express charges.

Arms and accoutrements have been forwarded from Benicia Barracks for the militia companies at Tucson and Florence.

The Colorado river was stocked with carp a few years ago, which have greatly increased. All the rivers in Arizona should be stocked with this fish.

Wood is hauled a long distance to Phoenix and sold at $3.50 per cord. In Globe we think we are getting it cheap at $6.00.

Herbert Brown, Register of the Tucson Land Office, is enjoying a month's vacation in California, where his family are summering.

The Citizen says that a great many fig trees are being shipped into the Territory. The fig does well in any part of central or southern Arizona.

The Maricopa County Bee-keepers Association shipped a car of honey to Chicago, recently, which netted over 5 cents per pound; a satisfactory figure.

The Star reports that the railroad between Benson and Calhoun was so damaged by recent floods that nearly sixty miles of road will have to be rebuilt.

By an order of the Board of Supervisors the prisoners serving out sentences in the county jail, will be required to labor on the public highways as soon as the weather settles and permits them to do so. Splendid move.—Star.

R. C. Brown, the peripatetic representative of the Florence Enterprise, has been "doing" Yavapai county, and will extend his trip to other portions of Northern Arizona. The Enterprise is making a strong effort to extend its circulation.

The heaviest rain storm of the season visited Prescott last evening (Aug. 6th). It came from the northeast, and was accompanied by heavy thunder and lightning, considerable wind and some hail, the hail stones being unusually large. At Whipple the hail was very much more severe than at Prescott, the ground being covered, and many windows were broken.—Journal-Miner.

The Phoenix Herald says: Globe is likely to get a branch line of a railroad from the Southern Pacific, as a line has been surveyed. It is reported that all that is now wanting is the right of way over the San Carlos Indian reservation. The country is level and the building can be rapidly done when it commences and the increased mining boom at Globe would justify the building of the road.

The Supervisors are preparing to take advantage of the provisions of the funding act. They have instructed their clerk to communicate to the Secretary of the Loan Commission a complete statement comprising the total bonded and floating indebtedness of Yuma county and the probable additional indebtedness which will be incurred up to December 31st, 1890.—Yuma Times.

According to Current Literature, the center of population of the United States is now at Madison, Indiana, near the junction of the thirty-sixth parallel and the eighty-fifth meridian. This estimate is made upon incomplete data. It will require the complete census returns to arrive at an accurate deduction, when the center of population will, in all probability, be located farther west than Madison, Ind.

The damage to the Santa Cruz Valley near the city is almost irreparable. For one whole mile there is a channel from 5 to 20 feet deep and 50 yards wide, cut through the cream of the gardening land. The soil is saving in on all sides continually, but from above is temporarily checked by some trees in Leon's field. The actual damage to the land is considerable, besides rendering the valley less fertile.

one-half mile wide, tearing down and melting away adobe farmhouses and ruining a considerable amount of the small portion of irrigated land near the town. It pursues its course in some places a mile wide and has washed out about a half mile of the S. P. track at Toltec.—Cor. Phoenix Herald.

A gentleman who attended the Democratic committee meeting last night said to a prominent Republican after the meeting that "it looked as though the country was running more to good rains and fat cattle this year than to politics." "Yes," replied the Republican, "it's a two to one bet that one-third of the voters will feel so elated over the mining outlook and range prospects that they will forget to register."—Tombstone Prospector.

One of the oldest combinations, probably, that ever met in one set on a dancing platform, was observed at the barbecue at Chino valley recently. W. A. Freeze and Miss Shivers occupied the head of the set, while opposite to them were Mr. Shivers and partner, the male portion of the side couple being J. C. Snow and J. C. Storms. Icicles are said to have formed on the "fiddle strings" during the progress of the dance. No wonder that a hail storm interrupted the progress of the barbecue.—Journal-Miner.

New mines are being discovered daily, all through Arizona, and they are not wild cats either, but the argentiferous stuff; ore that pays to take out and ship; ore that makes the miner glad, and indicates an immediate and permanent hope of the mining industry of Arizona.—Gazette.

A more striking and glorious picture is rarely presented on the panorama of the heavens than that which Venus, Mars and Jupiter affords during the August evenings. Before the close of the evening twilight Venus may be seen in the west, Mars in the south and Jupiter in the southeast. Each orb stands out conspicuous among the luminaries of its vicinity. Even the most casual and careless star gazer will not be able to confound any of these three with any other orbs. Venus is nearing the earth, and is now close to its brightest and most brilliant aspect. During August Venus sets about an hour and three quarters later than the Globe-Democrat.

Americans complained of many of the questions asked by the census enumerators this year, but in Germany the people submit to far more rigid scrutiny of their domestic affairs without a murmur. Even the income is obtained, the rent of the building occupied and other matters which even Superintendent Porter had not the hardihood to include in his little catechism. Added to this, the German police is a great census gathering machine, for it records all arrivals and departures and has a hand in the renting of all houses.—S. F. Chronicle.

There will be general regret that Major-General Miles should be transferred to the Department of the Missouri, away from his old association and field of operations. He will make his headquarters at Chicago and will be a fitting representative of the American soldier to the World's Fair.—Phoenix Republican.

Dr. Carl Lumboltz, the author of "Among Camels," an account of life among the primitive savages of Australia, is now organizing an exploring expedition to visit a remnant of the Aztecs believed to be surviving in the Sierra Madre mountains of Northern Mexico.

Senator Everts, as Chairman of the Committee on Library, recently reported a bill appropriating $20,000 to purchase for the Government the papers and correspondence of Thomas Jefferson, now in possession of his descendants.

Visitor (addressing the new baby in its mamma's absence)—She has her mamma's chin.
Happy father—Not much, she hasn't. Her mamma has all the chin she ever had.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

It costs the government $250,000 a year to print the Congressional Record.
